

POST-IMPERIAL TOPOGRAPHIES: REDISCOVERING GALICIA

KRAKOW, POLAND: June 9 – July 6, 2014

Program description:

Taking advantage of the location of Jagiellonian University in Krakow, this program explores Galicia's past and present. Students will become familiar with the history and culture of the whole region of Central Europe and will be offered three courses taught by professors from both University of Illinois at Chicago and Jagiellonian University (Keely Stauter-Halsted, Michał Galas, Tomasz Bilczewski...). All participants will earn 8 ECTS credits (4 college credits) for each class (45h of instruction for each course):

- Galicia Now and Then: Postimperial Mapping of Central and Eastern Europe
- Galicia on the Crossroads of Cultures: from Literature to Performative Arts
- Survival Polish

Special features:

- Guided tours of Krakow's most famous sites
- Day study tour to former Galician shtetls
- Day study tour to Auschwitz
- Two day study tour to Polish Highlands – Zakopane
- Welcome and Farewell dinners

Orientation:

Upon arrival in Krakow, students will attend an orientation, which will include health and safety recommendations, cultural information, and a guided tour of Krakow.

Housing/meals:

Students will be placed in double rooms in a student dormitory. Breakfast will be provided daily. Students will be responsible for their own lunch and dinners during their stay in Krakow and on study trips.

Eligibility:

The program is directed to undergraduate students with good academic standings from US and Canadian colleges. Only 15 students will be accepted to attend the program.

Costs:

The program fee of $2995 includes tuition, housing, some meals, airport transfers, public transportation pass, welcome and farewell dinners, orientation and excursions. Additional expenses include: airfare, most meals and personal expenses.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS: MAY 15, 2014.
